Life is all about happiness and our interaction with our fellow beings. This not only brings happiness but help us grow as well. Having a positive aura around naturally reduces negativity. November brought with it hope in the form of the Festival of Lights – Deepawali. Diwali falls on the darkest day of the Lunar month- Kartik, symbolising that darkness can be won by lighting a lamp. Let's keep this candle of hope burning in us. Let's stand together to fight all the evils around and and come out victorious.

Hope you all had a fabulous festival and festivities.

DIWALI CELEBRATIONS WITH A DIFFERENCE

Traditions and customs make any festival come alive. Their fun increases multifold when they are celebrated with those who are important to you. SPSS has always considered parents as part of its extended family and so it becomes imperative that the festivals are celebrated in unison. This year to make the festival of lights even more sparkling a Rangoli making and family pic Competition was organized for the families of the students. The idea was hugely appreciated by one and all and the quantum of entries received for the competition was huge. Judges had a tough time deciding who the winners should be?

CHILDREN'S DAY

We see our reflection in the kids. Their happiness means most to all of us. 14th November is a day dedicated to kids as Children's Day. SPSS ensures it is special in the true sense of the world. Every year an activity Learn and Fun is organized as an ode to childhood. As the name itself suggests that it is learning through fun. So the activities are also planned in a way to enhance the thinking as well as logical skills of the students. Keeping in mind the significance of Diwali the students of class one and two painted diyas, decorated candles, made paper diya and Diwali greeting cards. The students from Nursery to

Sr.kg enjoyed making diya and lantern with paper folding. After completing the activity they shared their beautiful pictures with the teacher. The colourful cards and neatly painted diyas won everybody's heart

It was a beautiful and sparkling celebration where everyone came up with new ideas to show their creativity.

Teachers also recorded wonderful messages for their students and sent to them. The gesture received over whelming response from parents and students.

DIWALI - SPARKLING WITH A CAUSE

*We the Singhania's always believe in helping society and rendering services to humanity. Students and teachers and their families as a part of the celebration helped someone in need, visited orphanages and brought a smile to every face. All shared their experiences in the form of picture or a short video. The Principal Mr. Pravin Kumar appreciated the students for this thoughtful gesture.

RECITATION COMPETITION

Poetry always comes alive through recitation. Poetry is not only a part of literature but it is also reading, recitation and participation.

The little poets of Singhania keenly participated in the English recitation competition. The students came up with unique and beautifully jewelled poems covering various topics like environment, animals, girl child, etc. Each one of the participants tried to abide by the rules which added as an asset to their act. The poetry adorned with beautiful props and expressions mesmerised the judges.

The efforts put by the parents to dress up and make the child learn the poem was eminent. The heartwarming and joint effort from the child as well as parent was appreciable.
